

ABSTRACT

Input form information associated with an input form is stored in a form name holding unit. Input 5 speech is recognized by a speech recognition unit, and input form information corresponding to that speech recognition result is selected. The display pattern of an input form corresponding to the selected input form information is controlled by a GUI display unit.